

Human Rights In Judaism: Cultural, Religious, And Political Perspectives

Change over time in Israel's religious landscape

% in Israel classified as ...

Source: Israeli Central Bureau of Statistics.

In 2014, 4% of Israelis were classified as "other" by the census. This includes some non-Jewish family members of Jews who have immigrated to Israel from the former Soviet Union, other Israelis who do not identify with any religion, members of the Baha'i faith and a smattering of smaller religious groups in Israel. In 1949, no Israeli citizens were classified as "other" by the census.

Minor differences between the census and the Pew Research Center survey in the religious distribution of Israel may be due to the universe covered (Israelis of all ages in the census, ages 18+ in the survey) as well as the survey's definition of Jews and the margin of sampling error associated with the survey.
